1. What aspects of the gathering seemed most interesting and useful to you?
   - People piggybacking on other people's ideas and stating connections
   - Open forum w/no agenda driving the discussion
   - The fact that we came together to talk and share ideas
   - Opportunities to hear about potential collaborations
   - It has been useful to hear what all departments are doing presently and how we can collaborate together
   - Hearing about all the amazing work being done all across campus & community
   - Hearing about what other people are doing
   - Project ideas
   - Multiple disciplines
   - Broad definition of Health, incorporating various aspects and influences of wellness (personal, environmental, global)
   - Brainstorming/dreaming
   - Brainstorming with an open mind
   - I liked the concepts and how Julie pulled the different information from us to build each idea
   - Discussion

2. Do you plan to take any action as a result of attending this gathering?
   - Talk to some people who can help me with two projects I’m working on and to better work w/student employees I supervise
   - Yes - I will connect w/others from this session where I see synergy
   - Probably, but not right away
   - Follow up with Center for Active Living & Healthy Communities again
   - Continue to attend sessions and participate and listen to ideas and conversation
   - I will pay attention to collaborative opportunities
   - Going to talk to Becky
   - Not right now
   - maybe discuss options for a proposal
   - Plan to share with colleagues with similar interest who are not here
   - I plan to keep participating, and specifically to follow-up with two people/projects mentioned
   - Attend other meetings & continue conversation
   - I plan to continue with the work on clusters assist, with the disaster concept, and other areas as well
3. What impact did your participation in this event have on your thinking?
   - None. I already work collaboratively w/lots of areas on campus
   - I was already interested, but this was encouraging. Let's not waste this opportunity to model change!
   - Deeper understanding of the potential
   - Challenging to decide on #1 cluster at this point in the discussion. Some folks have many ideas already and we heard a lot from them but I would like all to have more of a chance to discuss/communicate
   - Really used it as a listening opportunity
   - Clusters are a great idea but it’s a DAUNTING task - I’m feeling overwhelmed
   - I am interested in Becky’s idea to create wellness programing for students
   - Not much
   - Increased my confidence that this will work
   - Encouraged by many ideas. BUT it re-emphasized need for a central location (online and otherwise) for such discussions to occur
   - Broadened the scope of the concept of “clusters”
   - Thinking out of the box
   - I was able to see many other areas of expertise at PSU. Many Health focused ideas and people
   - Reinforced already known

4. What recommendations do you have for the workshop facilitator/presenter or for CETL staff to help us improve such events in the future?
   - None
   - Professional facilitator that is not a PSU employee
   - Julie is a great facilitator
   - I’m in the same place as other people wondering about resources
   - More sessions
   - I would have had this as a more open discussion - less directed by one person
   - Start with broader goals and work back to “what do we do now?”. Avoid limitations of current projects and initiatives
   - Include community members
   - We will need faculty/staff development to help us “re-think” about how we teach within clusters
   - Great conversation
   - Action items and deadline dates by: .......
